

Inclusion Team at St James'

- I am Sally Sharp, the Special Educational Needs Co-ordinator (SENCo)
- I teach every afternoon across KS2 and have SENCo time every morning except for Friday.

What to do if you are concerned about your child's progress

- First, speak with your child's Class Teacher.
- We will then work together and decide on next steps.
- We will plan and implement strategies that will help your child make progress.
- They might receive interventions and/or some targeted support in lessons.
- This might involve some assessments to understand your child's difficulties or I might make a referral for extra advice and support.
- Your child will receive a Pupil Passport which gives them individual strategies and targets and they will be put on the SEN Register at SEN Support level

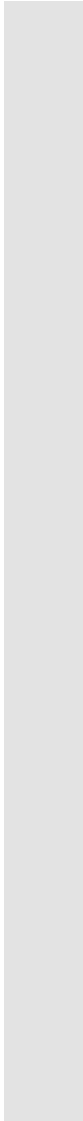

Assess, Plan, Do, Review

- Your child's progress will be carefully monitored.
- Each Term, we will review your child's progress and see if the strategies and interventions have helped.
- We will keep you informed and communicate progress with you.
- We might make further referrals, for example SEND Specialist teachers, Educational Psychology or Speech and Language therapy

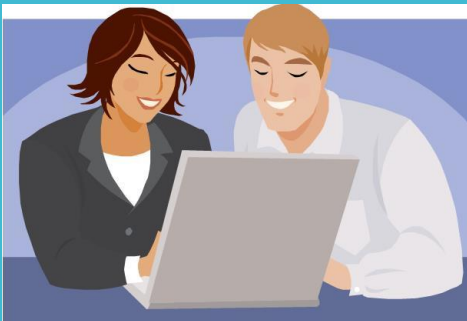

Education, Health and Care Plans (EHCP)

- Sometimes a child has multiple and complex needs, and their needs cannot be met without a significant amount of support.
- School and parents might decide to apply for an Educational Health Care Plan.
- It will take several months to gather evidence and advice from a range of professionals. Your child would also need to be observed by an Educational Psychologist . All professionals need to be in agreement that an EHCP should be applied for.
- A request is put into the Local Authority with a large amount of evidence.

- A panel includes a range of professional and they decide whether the child's needs are exceptional, and whether they fulfil the criteria for an EHCP.
 - Sometimes a panel decide not to issue an EHCP. They may feel the child's needs aren't presenting as being exceptional to their peers, or they may require more evidence.
 - An Education, Health and Care plan (EHCP) is a legal document which describes a child or young person's special educational needs, the support they need, and the outcomes they would like to achieve.
